INTRODUCTION

As a recent graduate from the University of Central Punjab (UCP) with a BS in Computer Science, I bring a strong foundation in web development and a passion for cutting-edge technologies. With hands-on experience in WordPress development, I have successfully designed, tested, and customized websites, leveraging plugins to create visually appealing and highly functional sites. My academic journey also included a Final Year Project (FYP) centered on computer vision, alongside various projects utilizing the MVC framework, showcasing my ability to apply my skills to real-world challenges. I am eager to contribute to innovative projects and continue expanding my expertise in the tech industry.
